1. About the Company

Most companies start with a spreadsheet. MAGPPIE started with a feeling. A quiet, stubborn sense that things could be done more carefully, more honestly, more thoughtfully than what was already out there. That feeling showed up in 1997, and it has never really gone away.

We did not begin by building kitchens. We began by paying attention to how people actually live, what makes a home feel right, what a space needs to do beyond just look good. That curiosity took us from premium home accessories into something far more personal. The kitchen. The wardrobe. The rooms where daily life actually happens.

At some point in that journey, we stopped and asked ourselves a question that changed the whole direction of the business. What if a kitchen did more than look beautiful? What if it genuinely kept your family healthier? That one question led us to build the world's first Wellness Kitchens, made entirely in stone, completely free of termites, fungus, and the harmful chemicals that silently seep out of ordinary wooden panels every day. This was not a response to a trend. It came from a belief that families who trust us with their homes deserve better than what the industry had been offering them for decades.

People took notice. MAGPPIE became the first Indian brand to win the Red Dot International Design Award in Germany, IF design award and most recently, most innovative product award at NKBA/KBIS in Feb 2026. We received the Pride of the Nation honour. But honestly, the recognition that means the most to us is far simpler than any award. It is a family, years down the line, who still loves their MAGPPIE kitchen.

This policy document is written in that same spirit. It is a record of who we are and who we want to remain, as a company, as colleagues, and as people. Please read it that way.

2. Our Values

If you spend enough time at MAGPPIE, you start to notice something about the way people talk about their work here. There is a quiet pride in it. A sense that what we are doing genuinely matters. That does not come from nowhere. It comes from values that we have never really had to enforce, because most people who find their way here already carry them.

We care about quality in a way that goes well beyond the product itself. Yes, our kitchens come with a 25-year guarantee and we mean every word of that. But quality at MAGPPIE also means how we show up to a meeting, how we respond when a customer has a complaint, how we treat a supplier when nobody senior is watching. If something carries our name, whether it is a cabinet or a conversation, it should be excellent.

We think long. In an industry that tends to celebrate speed and volume above most things, we have always been more interested in longevity. We would rather take the time to do something properly than move fast and clean up the mess later. That is not slowness. It is respect. Respect for the customer, for the craft, and for the people doing the work.

We believe in honesty, even when it is uncomfortable. If something is not working, we say so. If we have made a mistake, we own it. We do not dress things up or pass the blame around. People can handle the truth, and they trust you more for giving it to them directly.

Through all of it, we respect people. Every single person who is part of the MAGPPIE world, the customer walking into a showroom for the first time, the craftsperson who has been with us for twenty years, the newest team member still finding their footing, every one of them deserves to be treated with genuine dignity. That is not a policy. It is just who we are.

3. Scope and Purpose of This Code

This Code is for everyone who is part of MAGPPIE. Full-time, part-time, on contract, consulting, or simply representing us in any capacity. If you are doing something in MAGPPIE's name, this applies to you.

It exists because we have grown, and when a company grows, you can no longer rely on everyone just knowing what is right by instinct alone. You need to write it down. Not to replace good judgment, but to support it.

Think of it as a shared compass. When a situation feels unclear, when you are not sure how to handle something, when a decision involves competing interests, when something feels off but you cannot quite put your finger on why, this is the document you come back to. It is here to help you think a situation through, not to think for you.

And if you read it and are still unsure, ask someone. Ask your manager, ask HR, ask a colleague you trust. Nobody at MAGPPIE should ever feel like they have to work through a difficult situation completely on their own. That is not the kind of company we are.

4. Core Principles

There is a version of a company that does the right thing because it is being watched. And then there is a version that does the right thing because it genuinely believes in doing so. We want to be the second kind. These principles are what that looks like in practice.

Integrity, for us, means consistency. It means making the same decision whether the boss is in the room or not, whether the customer will ever find out or not, whether it costs us something or not. If you would feel uncomfortable explaining a choice to a colleague or a customer, that discomfort is telling you something. Listen to it.

The information we handle, customer details, business plans, pricing, supplier relationships, is shared with us in trust. We treat it carefully and we never use it carelessly or for personal gain. When our personal interests start to overlap with our professional ones, we do not hide it. We name it, talk it through, and work out the right path forward together.

On the matter of how we treat each other, this is where we have absolutely no flexibility. MAGPPIE is a place where every person has the right to feel safe and respected. Discrimination of any kind, based on gender, religion, caste, age, background, or anything else, is not something we tolerate. Harassment, whether physical, verbal, or anything in between, has no place here. We say this plainly because it matters plainly.

We deal fairly with everyone we work with. Customers, suppliers, competitors, partners. We make promises we can actually keep. We do not take shortcuts that come at someone else's expense. And we stay within the law, always, without exception.

5. Our People and Culture

The best thing about MAGPPIE, and we say this without any hesitation, is the people. Not the awards, not the product line, not the company history. The people.

We hire people we trust, and then we actually trust them. We are not interested in looking over shoulders or building a culture that runs on permission. We would rather set a clear direction and give people the freedom to find their own way there. Most of the time, they find a better way than we would have designed for them.

We want MAGPPIE to be a place where people feel safe enough to speak up. Not just when things are going well, but especially when they are not. If a process does not make sense, say so. If a decision feels wrong, raise it. If something is happening that should not be, tell someone. We promise, and we mean it, that speaking up will never be held against you. Silence, on the other hand, is how problems grow.

We grow together here. When one person on the team gets better, the whole team benefits. When someone learns something new, takes on a bigger challenge, or finds a smarter way to do something, that ripple moves through everything. We invest in each other's growth because we understand that is what actually builds a company worth working at.

We also try to check our egos at the door. The best idea in the room might come from someone who joined last month. It might come from someone who has been here for two decades. It might come from somewhere completely unexpected. The only way to catch those ideas is to genuinely listen to everyone, all the time. Rank does not determine wisdom.

Most of all, we want people to feel that their work means something. Because it does. Every kitchen we design, every wardrobe we build, every problem we solve for a customer, it goes somewhere. It lives in someone's home. It becomes part of someone's daily life. There is something quietly remarkable about that, and we never want to lose sight of it.

6. Our Community

MAGPPIE has never believed that a business ends at the company gates. What we do ripples outward, into homes, into neighbourhoods, into the environment, into the country, and we take that seriously.

The choices we make in how we build things are not accidental. Stone over wood. No harmful gases. No termites. No fungus. These decisions cost more. They take longer. But they result in homes that are genuinely healthier, and that is worth every bit of the extra effort. The people who trust us with their most intimate spaces deserve products that are honest all the way through.

We think about the people around us too. Our craftspeople, our suppliers, the communities connected to our work. We try to be fair partners. We pay on time. We do not squeeze people.

We try to leave every relationship, commercial or otherwise, better than we found it. Business done well should lift people up, not wear them down.

We are genuinely proud to be Indian. Not in a way that is loud or performative, but in a way that carries real weight. When we became the first Indian company to win the Red Dot Award in Germany, it meant something. It meant that craftsmanship from this country, passion from this country, can hold its own against anything in the world. We carry that with us.

Ultimately, we want MAGPPIE to be the kind of company that people, whether they are team members, customers, partners, or part of the broader community, are proud to be connected to. Not just because of what we have built, but because of how we built it, and the kind of people we chose to be along the way.

7. POLICIES

7.1 ETHICS & COMPLIANCE

7.1 a) ANTI-BRIBERY/ANTI-CORRUPTION

Our Stance: We win business through the quality of our work and the honesty of our people, nothing else. We have zero tolerance for bribery and corruption, and that applies to everyone at every level.

What Counts as a Bribe: A bribe is not just cash. It includes expensive gifts, paying for someone's holiday, or small payments made to speed up permits or shipments. If you feel the need to hide it, it is a bribe. Do not do it.

Gifts and Hospitality: A normal business lunch or a modest festival gift is fine. Cash, expensive items, or trips that could influence a decision are not.

Third Parties: If a vendor or agent pays a bribe on our behalf, we are equally responsible. We screen every partner before working with them. We do not work with people who take shortcuts.

Speak Up: If you see something wrong, report it. You will not face any retaliation for doing so. We will keep it confidential and investigate it properly. You may write to culture@MAGPPIE.com or director@MAGPPIE.com.

Consequences: Failure to comply with this policy may lead to termination of employment and potential legal action. We maintain a strict commitment to upholding our reputation and will not compromise on these standards.

7.1 b) EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY

At MAGPPIE, we believe talent is everywhere. It does not matter where you grew up, what you look like, or what your background is. If you have the skills, the drive, and the creativity, you belong here. We give everyone the same fair shot.

i) How We Hire and Grow: When we hire, promote, or decide on pay, we look at one thing and that is YOU. Your skill of learnability, your work, and how you contribute to what we are building together. Nothing else plays a role in that decision.

ii) Same Opportunity, Everyone: We make sure that no matter your gender, age, religion, disability, sexual orientation, or where you come from, you have access to the same tools and opportunities as everyone else. No exceptions.

iii) We've Got You: If you have a disability or need something adjusted to do your best work, just let us know. We will figure it out together. We care about what you can do, and we want to make sure nothing gets in the way of that.

7.1 c) ANTI-DISCRIMINATION

What We Stand For: Creativity cannot grow in an environment where people feel judged or unsafe. At MAGPPIE, every single person deserves to feel respected and welcomed. We have zero tolerance for discrimination or harassment of any kind.

How We Expect People to Behave: It does not matter if it is a comment, an action, or a joke. If it makes someone feel uncomfortable, threatened, or disrespected, it is not acceptable here. We expect everyone, whether you are a team member, a client, or a partner, to be treated with genuine respect.

Your Right to Speak Up: If you are being treated unfairly or harassed in any way, you have every right to raise it. You will not face any backlash for coming forward.

What Happens When a Complaint Is Raised: We do not brush things under the carpet or wait to see if a situation resolves itself. Every complaint is taken seriously and investigated promptly. If discrimination or harassment is confirmed, suitable disciplinary action will follow.

A Word on Honest Reporting: This policy exists to protect people, not to settle personal scores. If someone knowingly makes a false accusation to harm a colleague, that will be treated as a serious disciplinary matter.

7.1 d) ANTI BULLYING POLICY

Our Commitment: The company is committed to providing a workplace where all team members are treated with dignity and respect. Bullying in any form will not be tolerated and will be addressed promptly.

What Is Bullying: Bullying is repeated behaviour that is unreasonable, unwanted, and causes harm or distress to another person. It can take many forms including:

- (i) Repeated criticism that is personal, unfair, or humiliating rather than constructive, or
- (ii) Deliberately excluding or isolating someone from work activities or conversations, or
- (iii) Spreading rumours or making false statements about a person, or
- (iv) Constantly undermining someone's work or professional reputation without valid reason, or
- (v) Threatening, intimidating, or aggressive behaviour towards another person.

Bullying can happen in person, over email, through messaging apps, or on social media. It can also occur between peers, from a manager to a team member, or from a team member towards a manager.

What Is Not Bullying: It is important to distinguish bullying from reasonable management actions. The following are not considered bullying:

- i) Providing honest and constructive feedback on performance.

- ii) Setting clear expectations or deadlines.
- iii) Managing attendance or conduct issues through proper HR processes.
- iv) Disagreements or differences of opinion that are handled respectfully.

Reporting a Complaint: Any team member who believes they are being bullied or who witnesses bullying must report it to their reporting manager or the HR team. If the complaint involves the reporting manager, the team member may go directly to HR or to a senior manager. All complaints will be treated with confidentiality. The person raising the complaint will not face any form of retaliation for doing so.

Investigation Process: HR will review every complaint and carry out a fair and thorough investigation. Both parties will be heard. The process will be conducted without bias and with respect for everyone involved.

Consequences: If bullying is found to have occurred, appropriate disciplinary action will be taken against the person responsible. The severity of the action will depend on the nature and seriousness of the behaviour.

Responsibility of All team members: Every team member is responsible for contributing to a respectful workplace. If you see bullying happening to someone else, you are encouraged to report it or support the person being bullied in doing so.

7.1 e) FRATERNISATION POLICY

Objective: We want MAGPPIE to be a place where everyone is treated fairly and that means making sure personal relationships don't get in the way of professional decisions.

Applicable to: Includes and is not limited to Close relatives, spouses, partners, domestic partners, old friends, or anyone you share a romantic or deeply personal relationship with, and any person with a familial or romantic relationship that may impact impartiality.

The Basic Rules

- i) If you and a close relative or partner work here, you cannot be in a position where one of you manages, evaluates, or directly influences the other's work.
- ii) In the same department, close relatives cannot co-exist.
- iii) Relatives or partners should not work across interconnected departments where their roles could influence each other's decisions or outcomes.

Relationships at work: When you work at a place where your interests align, it may happen that that relationship can grow closer. So, if a romantic relationship begins between two team members, both individuals must disclose it to HR promptly. We'll work with them to ensure there's no conflict of interest going forward. Disclosure is a must whether you're a new joiner or an existing team member. If a relevant relationship exists or develops, you must inform HR. Hiding it may lead to disciplinary action, including termination.

Non-Compliance:

Non-disclosure of a close relationship as defined in this policy may lead to disciplinary action, up to and including termination of employment.

7.2 WORKPLACE CONDUCT & SAFETY

7.2 a) DRUGS, ALCOHOL AND FOOD

We want MAGPPIE to be a place where everyone feels sharp, creative, and safe. That means every person on the team needs to show up fit to work. Being under the influence puts you, your colleagues, and our reputation at risk.

What We Expect: During work hours, possessing, under influence or selling illegal drugs or unauthorized alcohol on any MAGPPIE premises is strictly not allowed. If you are at a client meeting, trade show, or company event, you represent MAGPPIE. Alcohol is strictly prohibited at company-sanctioned events. You are expected to act responsibly and maintain professional behaviour.

If you are on prescribed medication that might affect your alertness or ability to operate machinery, just give your manager a heads up privately. We do not need the details. We just need to know you are safe.

During working hours, within the premises of MAGPPIE, you are not allowed to bring, consume, or offer non-vegetarian food (including meat, fish, or eggs) during working hours on company premises. You will not serve or pay for non-vegetarian food for any guests, clients, contractors, or business associates during meetings, events, or other official gatherings. All meals provided will be strictly vegetarian to respect cultural preferences and maintain consistency with company values.

You must avoid bringing or consuming foods with strong odours (e.g., foods containing garlic, onions, or pungent spices) within company premises. Such foods can cause discomfort or distractions to others in the workplace. You must eat meals only in designated dining areas. Foods with mild or neutral odours are encouraged in shared spaces to ensure a comfortable environment for everyone.

We Are Here to Help: If you or someone you know is struggling with substance dependency, please come to us. If you reach out voluntarily, we will treat it as a health matter, not a disciplinary one. We will help you find the right support and work with you on a plan to get back on track.

When We Have to Act: We will step in if your performance is clearly affected by substance use, if there is a safety incident on the floor, or if illegal substances are found on you during work hours.

Testing: For roles involving machinery, driving, or high risk work, we reserve the right to test if there is reasonable cause to suspect impairment. This is purely about keeping everyone safe.

Zero Tolerance for Repeated Violations: Repeat violations of the policy will not be tolerated. Disregarding the policy may face escalated consequences, including termination.

7.2 b) WORKPLACE VIOLENCE PREVENTION POLICY

Zero Tolerance: The company has a zero tolerance approach towards any form of workplace violence. Every team member has the right to work in a safe and respectful environment. Any act or threat of violence will be taken seriously and dealt with immediately.

What Counts as Workplace Violence: Workplace violence includes any behaviour that causes physical harm, threatens physical harm, or creates fear in the mind of another person. This includes:

- (i) Physical assault or any attempt to physically harm another person.
- (ii) Threatening language, gestures, or behaviour whether in person, over the phone, or in writing.
- (iii) Destruction of property with the intent to intimidate or harm.
- (iv) Any behaviour that makes another team member fear for their personal safety.

This applies in the office, at company events, during work related travel, and in any online or digital communication related to work.

Reporting an Incident: Any team member who experiences or witnesses an act of violence or a credible threat of violence must report it to their reporting manager or the HR team immediately. If there is an immediate threat to safety, the team member should contact emergency services first. All reports will be treated with seriousness and confidentiality. team members will not face any negative consequences for reporting in good faith.

Investigation: Once a complaint is received, HR will initiate a prompt and fair investigation. Both the person who raised the complaint and the person against whom the complaint is made will be given an opportunity to share their side. The investigation will be conducted with confidentiality and without bias.

Consequences: If a team member is found to have engaged in workplace violence or made credible threats of violence, strict disciplinary action will be taken. Depending on the severity of the incident, this may include termination of employment and reporting to the relevant authorities.

Support for Those Affected: The company recognises that experiencing or witnessing violence can be deeply distressing. Team members who have been affected by a violent incident at work may reach out to HR for guidance and support.

Preventive Measures: All team members are expected to contribute to a safe workplace by being aware of their surroundings, treating others with respect, and reporting any behaviour that feels threatening before it escalates.

7.2 c) EMPLOYEE PROTECTION POLICY(EPP)

The Rule of Zero Tolerance

Professionalism must exist at MAGPPIE. It is strictly banned to shout, use foul language, or act disrespectfully. This applies to everyone:

- i) From Senior to Junior
- ii) From Junior to Senior
- iii) Peer to Peer

Raising one's voice is not a suitable way to communicate, regardless of the situation or the error.

Immediate Action & Reporting

You are advised to report the incident right away if you witness or are shouted at. No team member will be punished or targeted for reporting a violation of this policy.

Internal Disciplinary Committee

Any verbal abuse or misconduct that is reported will be forwarded to the Internal Disciplinary Committee, which includes

- i) Megha Jain
- ii) Vikas Jain
- iii) Culture Team

Process of Resolution

Review: The committee will meet to hear both sides of the incident.

Evidence: Documents (emails and messages) and any witnesses will be examined.

Final Decision: The committee has the power to issue formal warnings, fines, or termination.

7.2 d) DRESS CODE

At MAGPPIE, we believe that our workplace environment should reflect professionalism, mutual respect, and comfort for everyone. All team members are encouraged to dress in a manner that is neat, modest, and appropriate for a professional workplace. Clothing should be professional and presentable at all times.

Attire that is overly casual, revealing, or inappropriate for a workplace environment, such as excessively short clothing or garments with very deep necklines is not considered suitable for the office. Our intention is to maintain a respectful and comfortable work environment for all colleagues while upholding the professional image of MAGPPIE. We appreciate everyone's cooperation in maintaining these standards.

Guidelines for Men

Everyday Attire: Collared shirts (long or short sleeved), tucked into trousers or chinos, or Smart casuals, polo T-shirts with smart jeans (for non-client dealing staff) Clean, well fitted clothing that's pressed and put together.

Client Meetings: When representing MAGPPIE, full business formal is the standard; blazers or suits with ties as appropriate. First impressions matter, and we want ours to count.

Grooming: Neat hair and well maintained facial hair go a long way. A little attention to the details makes all the difference.

Guidelines for Women

Everyday Attire: Formal blouses, shirts or professional dresses are all great choices. Ethnic wear is warmly welcomed too like saris, salwar kameez and similar styles are a beautiful part of our workplace.

Flexibility for Remote/Hybrid Workers: Adapt the attire guidelines for team members working remotely or in hybrid settings, ensuring professionalism during virtual meetings.

You are expected to comply with this policy. Failure to adhere to the dress code may result in corrective action.

7.3 ATTENDANCE & LEAVE

7.3 a) CODE OF CONDUCT

Expected Attendance: Regular and punctual attendance is an important part of every team member's responsibility. Team members are expected to be present and ready to work at their scheduled start time each working day. Consistent absenteeism or habitual late coming affects the team and the overall functioning of the organisation and will be addressed seriously.

Reporting to Work on Time: Team members must arrive at the workplace or log in for remote work at their designated start time. If a team member is going to be late on any given day, they must inform their reporting manager as early as possible and before the start of the working day.

Marking Attendance: Team members are responsible for marking their own attendance through the Keka App or any other app provided by the company. Attendance must be marked honestly and accurately. Requesting someone else to mark attendance on your behalf or marking attendance for another team member is strictly prohibited and will be treated as a serious disciplinary matter.

Habitual Late Coming: Occasional late arrivals due to genuine reasons are understood. However, habitual or repeated late coming without valid reason is not acceptable. HR and the reporting manager will monitor attendance patterns and address concerns through a conversation first. If the behaviour continues, formal disciplinary steps will be followed.

Attendance Records: HR will maintain attendance records for all team members. These records will be used for payroll processing, leave calculations, and performance discussions. Team members may request to view their own attendance records at any time by reaching out to HR.

7.3 b) ATTENDANCE AND PUNCTUALITY POLICY

The 8.5-Hour Mandate: Our standard workday is 8.5 hours, and we strive to balance productivity and work quality over the course of the day. We want to make sure you are fully present and engaged in your work for 8 hours, with an extra 30 minutes for lunch. To account for genuine last minute delays, an additional grace period of 15 minutes is available which can be used up to 3 times in a calendar month without any impact on attendance records. However, if a fourth instance occurs in the same month, that day will be marked as a half-day. This provision is meant as a buffer for the unexpected, not a routine extension of the start time.

In case of specific business requirements, required to report before 9.45 am, the mandate hours will be calculated accordingly based on actual time.

Team members who are smokers, or those who regularly accompany smokers during smoking breaks, are required to complete a 9-hour working shift to compensate for the extended break time, which directly impacts productivity.

To maintain overall wellbeing, each team member is eligible for a regular week-off every week. This week-off can neither be clubbed together with any other week-off nor split. To be eligible for the regular week-off, you must work for at least 3 days during a week. eg. You have worked only for 2 days -Monday, Tuesday/Wednesday but applies for a leave for Thursday, Friday, Saturday having Sunday as a regular week-off. Then, in such a case, Sunday shall be considered and treated as leave and will be adjusted with paid leaves and in absence of paid leave availability, it will be considered as unpaid leave.

Starting Time: The standard office operational hours are from 9:45 AM to 8:00 PM.

The grace period: Arrival by 11:00 AM will not be officially recorded as late to account for unforeseen morning delays. 11:00 AM to 5:00 PM are our core working hours.

The Fair Exchange: Any team member utilizing the grace period is expected to extend their workday accordingly to complete the full 8.5 working hours. In other words, if you start your day at 10 am then you may sign off at 6.30 pm.

Team members are expected to respect time, hence, any substantial non-adherence of mandated working hours will lead to half-day salary deduction for 2 such non-adherences, it will be compensated from the leave balance. In case of insufficient leave balance, then it will lead to salary deduction.

7.3 c) LEAVE POLICY

Team member Leave Policy

Our Annual Leave Policy is about our commitment to ensuring our staff have the annual leave they need.

1. Statutory & Earned Leaves

These leaves are designed for personal time off and long-term recovery.

Earned Leaves (EL): 15 Days per Calendar Year, i.e. for every 20 days work performed, one earned leave shall be accrued and credited.

i) Objective: EL should only be used for family travel, rest, or any personal commitment.

ii) Monthly Credit: You are eligible for 1 leave after every 20 days you have worked; hence, the number of leaves sums up to 15 in a year.

iii) Carry Forward: Unused EL will be carried forward to the year, with a maximum limit of 30.

iv) Encashment: Between January 1st and February 15th each year, team members may encash a maximum of 10 EL days, provided they maintain a minimum balance of 5 days for rest.

v) Approval: Any EL request exceeding 1 day must be approved by your Reporting Manager at least 7 days in advance.

vi) Process: To help us support you, please share the objective of your time off when applying. Note that using carried-forward leaves requires specific approval from the reporting manager.

Sick Leaves (SL): 12 Days per Calendar Year

i) Objective: SL should only be used for health reasons and nothing else.

ii) Purpose: Intended for medical recovery or health emergencies.

iii) Documentation: For any absence exceeding 2 consecutive days, a medical certificate or supporting documentation is required. Failing to submit a supporting document will lead to unpaid leave.

iv) Lapse: Unused sick leaves expire at the end of each calendar year and will not be eligible for any carry forward. These leaves are not cashable.

v) Requirement: Please provide a brief objective for the leave to ensure we can effectively support your recovery or address any urgent health needs.

2. Specialised & Culture Leaves

We celebrate the moments that matter most to you and our community.

i) Festival Leaves: 11 Days per Year

A fixed calendar of 11 festivals is published covering major national and regional holidays. In addition, every team member gets 4 reserved (floating) holidays per year, which can be used at their discretion if they do not wish to avail a fixed holiday. Reserved holidays must be applied in advance with manager approval, cannot be carried forward, and will lapse if unused by calendar year-end. Reserved (Floating) Holidays can be utilised only for Festival only post accrual of it. Eg. Clubbing of more than 2 reserved holidays is not allowed. Eg. If Eid (a reserved Holiday) is listed for 21st March then leave in-lieu of it cannot be availed before 21st March.

ii) Weekend every month(SUNDAY+MONDAY): 2 Days

The company observes a six-day work week (Monday–Saturday) with the following exception:

Designated Weekends: Two Sundays and their following Mondays each month are designated as official company-wide holidays.

Saturdays: All Saturdays are standard working days.

Please note:

- Any clubbing with EL/SL(before or after) will be applicable in compliance to the Sandwich policy defined in 7.3 (e).
- The 2 additional week-offs cannot be taken on back-to-back weekends.
- There must be a gap of at least one weekend between the two additional week-offs.
- For example, if you take the 1st weekend off, your next additional week-off can only be on the 3rd or 4th weekend, not the 2nd.

Teams	Saturday	Sunday	Monday
Sales	Working	Roster(in case of ECM)	Any 2 offs
EC Manager	Working	Working	Off
Design	Working	Off	Any 2 offs
Accounts	Working	Off	Any 2 offs
HR(Culture Team)	Working	Off	Any 2 offs

Installation	Working	Off	Working
Admin	Working	Off	Any 2 offs
Office Boys	Working	Roster	Roster

Planned Leave: If a team member needs to take a day off, they must apply for leave in advance through the designated leave management system and obtain approval from their reporting manager before being absent. Unplanned absence must be communicated to the reporting manager as early as possible on the day of the absence itself.

Uninformed Absence: If a team member is absent without informing their reporting manager and without applying for leave, it will be treated as an uninformed absence. Repeated uninformed absences may result in loss of pay for those days and may lead to disciplinary action. For Any uninformed leave for 3 consecutive days, a warning letter will be sent via email on the 4th day of absenteeism. If a team member fails to respond within 24 hours of the email, the company may proceed with Termination of employment. Hence, if a team member is absent without approval for consecutive days, it will be deemed as willful abandonment of employment. In such a case, the company reserves the right to terminate employment without notice and team members will not be eligible for Full and Final settlement including pending salary. Legal action may also be initiated under applicable provisions depending upon the severity of matter.

7.3 d) REMOTE WORK

Team members who wish to work from home must follow the steps below:

- i) Depending on the nature of your work, submit a written request to your reporting manager before the intended WFH date. This can be done via email or through the official communication tool used in your team.
- ii) Your reporting manager must give written approval before you begin working from home defining the deliverables clearly. You should not assume approval unless it is confirmed in writing.
- iii) Once approval is received from your reporting manager, you must also inform the Culture Team. This ensures they are aware of your WFH arrangement and can update records accordingly. Failing to inform the Culture Team may result in the WFH arrangement not being officially recorded, which could affect leave or attendance records.

- iv) Requests should be made at least one working day in advance except in cases of an emergency, which must still be communicated to both the reporting manager and the Culture Team as soon as possible.
- v) Approvals are given at the discretion of the reporting manager based on business needs and team requirements.

Your Responsibilities While Working From Home

- i) Availability: You are expected to be fully available and responsive during your regular working hours while working from home. You should attend all scheduled calls and meetings and inform your team of your availability at the start of the day.
- ii) Work Output: Your productivity and quality of work are expected to remain consistent with in-office standards. If anything affects your ability to deliver, inform your reporting manager immediately. Update your availability and task progress every hour through Google Calendar.
- iii) Equipment and Workspace: You are responsible for making sure you have a proper and distraction-free workspace at home. You must also take care of any company equipment used at home and ensure it is safe and secure.
- iv) Confidentiality: You must ensure that confidential company information, data, and documents remain secure while working from home. Do not share or discuss sensitive information in a way that compromises its confidentiality.
- v) Adherence: Accountability and ownership towards work and deliverables is expected from all. Hence, any kind of misuse of WFH policy with respect to non-availability, delay in communication, lag in deliverables, breach of confidentiality, may lead to revocation of WFH. This may also lead to relevant disciplinary action depending upon the severity of the matter.

Role of the Culture Team

The Culture Team plays an important role in tracking WFH arrangements across the organisation. Once your reporting manager has approved your WFH request, you must notify the Culture Team so they can update attendance and remote work records, ensure the WFH arrangement is in line with company guidelines, and offer support or resources needed for a healthy and effective remote work experience. The culture team will also evaluate the work done everyday, report it to their manager and suggest future acceptance/denial of WFH for the said team member.

7.3 e) SANDWICH POLICY

- i) In case of a long weekend arising due to any festival, public holiday, or any other declared holiday(s), if a team member applies for leave immediately before or after such holidays, the intervening holiday(s) will also be counted as leave. In such a case, clubbing of leave up to 4 is allowed including week off, paid leaves, festival leave, comp off, etc. Any leave taken in clubbing of beyond 4 leaves, then all days are treated as leave shall be deducted from the earned leaves if approved and subject to available balance of earned leave.

ii) If the paid leave balance is insufficient, the days will be treated as unpaid leave.

iii) All such leaves applied will be subject to prior approval from the reporting manager.

7.4 COMPENSATION & BENEFITS

7.4 a) MATERNITY LEAVE

This policy is governed by the Maternity Benefit Act, 1961, and its subsequent Amendment in 2017.

Eligibility:

To be eligible for paid maternity benefits, a team member must have:

i) Been employed at MAGPPIE for at least 80 working days in the 12 months immediately preceding the expected date of delivery.

ii) This applies to all categories of female team members.

Note: A team member must give notice in writing stating the date she will be absent.

Leave Entitlements

Under the current law, the duration of paid maternity leave is determined by the number of existing children and the nature of the motherhood journey:

1. For the First and Second Child: Eligible team members are entitled to a total of 26 weeks of fully paid maternity leave. Of these 26 weeks, a maximum of 8 weeks can be taken before the expected date of delivery, with the remaining 18 weeks to be utilised after the birth.

To ensure a seamless transition back to the workplace and to mitigate any potential loss of professional momentum or operational productivity, the following voluntary provision is available:

i) Mutual WFH Agreement: Upon the completion of the initial 14 weeks of post-delivery leave, the team member and the Management may, by mutual written agreement, opt to convert the final 12 weeks of the entitlement into a Work from Home arrangement.

ii) Conditions for WFH: This arrangement is subject to the nature of the team member's role and the availability of necessary remote infrastructure.

iii) Mutual Benefit: This provision is designed to ensure that neither party suffers, allowing the mother to remain connected to her professional responsibilities and the company to maintain operational continuity, while still providing the mother the comfort of being at home with her child.

2. For the Third Child and Onwards: For team members who already have two or more surviving children, the entitlement is 12 weeks of fully paid leave. This is typically split as 6 weeks before the delivery and 6 weeks after.
3. For Adoptive Mothers: An team member who legally adopts a child below the age of three months is entitled to 12 weeks of paid leave. This leave period commences from the date the child is physically handed over to the mother.

Financial & Medical Entitlements

- i) Average Daily Wage: team members are entitled to 100% of their salary, i.e., calculated on the average daily wage of the 3 months before leave.
- ii) Miscarriage: In such cases, the team member is entitled to 6 weeks of paid leave immediately following the event, provided medical proof is submitted.

7.4 b) GRATUITY POLICY

Gratuity is our way of saying thank you for the years you have given to MAGPPIE. It is also a legal entitlement under the Payment of Gratuity Act, 1972. If you have stayed with us and built something here, this is recognition of that commitment.

Who Is Eligible: You are eligible for gratuity if you have completed five or more years of continuous service at MAGPPIE. This covers permanent team members as well as fixed-term contract team members, subject to applicable laws.

The five-year rule does not apply in the case of death or disablement due to accident or illness. In those situations, gratuity is payable regardless of how long the person has worked with us.

When Gratuity Is Paid: Gratuity becomes payable when your employment ends due to resignation after five years of service, retirement, death, or total disablement caused by an accident or illness.

Nomination: Within 90 days of joining MAGPPIE, every team member must fill out a Nomination Form. The HR team will take responsibility for this. This ensures that if something were to happen to you, your gratuity reaches the right person without delay. If you pass away without a nomination in place, the amount will be paid to your legal heirs.

Calculation: Last drawn salary X 15 X Years of service / 26. It uses 15 days of wages for every completed year of service, divided by 26 working days a month.

7.5 DATA & ASSETS

7.5 a) ASSET POLICY

Issuance of Assets: The company may provide team members with assets such as laptops, mobile phones, ipad, SIM cards, headsets, or any other equipment needed to perform their work. All assets issued to a team member will be recorded by the HR or Admin team. The team member will be required to acknowledge receipt of each asset in writing at the time of issuance.

Responsible Use: team members are expected to use company assets responsibly and only for work related purposes. Assets must not be used for personal work, entertainment, or any activity unrelated to the team member's role.

Care and Maintenance: The team member is responsible for taking good care of all assets issued to them. Assets must be kept in good working condition. Any damage caused due to negligence or misuse will be the responsibility of the team member. Normal wear and tear over time is acceptable and will not be held against the team member.

Reporting Damage or Loss: If a company asset is damaged, lost, or stolen, the team member must report it to the Admin team and their reporting manager immediately. In case of theft, the team member must file a police report and submit a copy to HR within 48 hours. The cost of replacing an asset lost, loss of profit or damaged due to negligence may be recovered from the team member at the discretion of management.

No Unauthorised Transfer: A team member must not transfer, lend, or hand over a company asset to another person whether inside or outside the organisation without prior written approval from the Admin team or reporting manager.

Asset During Travel: team members travelling for work must take all reasonable precautions to keep company assets safe during travel. Assets must not be left unattended in public spaces or in vehicles.

Return of Assets: All company assets must be returned before or on the last working day in case of resignation or termination. Assets must be returned in the same condition they were issued, accounting for normal wear and tear. The clearance and full and final settlement process will not be completed until all assets have been returned and verified by the Admin team.

Software and Digital Assets: team members must not install unauthorised software on company devices. Only software approved by the IT team may be installed and used on company assets. Any software licences or digital tools provided by the company are for professional use only and must not be used for personal purposes.

7.5 b) ANTI SPAM POLICY

What Is Spam: Spam refers to any unsolicited, irrelevant, or bulk communication sent without the recipient's consent. This includes emails, messages, or any other form of communication that is not relevant, not requested, or sent in excessive volume.

Use of Company Email: The company email system is provided for professional communication only. Team members must not use their company email address to send or forward spam, chain messages, bulk promotional content, or any unsolicited communication to internal or external recipients.

Sending External Communications: Any bulk communication sent on behalf of the company to external parties such as clients, vendors, or potential customers must be approved by the reporting manager and the relevant team before it is sent. All external communication must comply with applicable laws related to electronic messaging and data privacy. Recipients must have either consented to receive the communication or have an existing relationship with the company.

Unsubscribe Requests: If any recipient requests to be removed from a mailing list or asks to stop receiving communications, this request must be honoured promptly. The concerned team must ensure the person is removed from all relevant lists without delay. Ignoring or delaying an unsubscribe request is not acceptable.

Internal Communication: team members must keep internal communication relevant and professional. Mass emails or messages sent to large groups within the organisation must only be sent when necessary and with the approval of the reporting manager or HR. Forwarding jokes, chain messages, promotional content, or any non-work related material through company systems is not permitted.

Phishing and Suspicious Emails: team members must be cautious of emails from unknown senders or emails that ask for login credentials, personal information, or financial details. Such emails must not be responded to or clicked on. If a team member receives a suspicious email, they must report it to the IT team immediately and must not forward it to others.

Use of Mailing Lists: Mailing lists maintained by the company must be kept accurate and up to date. Team members responsible for managing these lists must ensure that contacts are added only with proper consent and removed promptly when requested. Mailing lists must not be shared with third parties without authorisation from the reporting manager and HR.

Consequences of Non-Compliance: Sending spam or misusing the company's communication systems is a serious violation of this policy. It can damage the company's reputation and may have legal consequences. Any team member found violating this policy will be subject to disciplinary action.

7.5 c) SOCIAL MEDIA POLICY

Personal Use of Social Media: team members are free to maintain personal social media accounts in their personal time. However, team members must ensure that their personal social media activity does not negatively affect the company, their colleagues, or their own professional responsibilities. Platforms such as WhatsApp, Instagram and any other platform operated with company sim should primarily be used for Company related communication and promotion only. Team members are encouraged to share, report or amplify official company content, updates and campaigns. Posting, personal opinions, views or non-work related content is prohibited especially if it may impact a company's brand positioning.

Identifying Yourself as a team member: If a team member mentions the company or their role in any public social media post, they must make it clear that the views expressed are their own and do not represent the views of the company. Team members must not create the impression that they are speaking on behalf of the company unless they have been officially authorised to do so.

Confidential Information: team members must never share confidential company information on social media. This includes information about clients, internal processes, financial performance, upcoming projects, team matters, or anything else that is not publicly available. Even if a post is made on a personal account with privacy settings, sharing confidential information is a violation of this policy.

Respectful Communication: team members must not post content on social media that is disrespectful, discriminatory, or harmful towards colleagues, clients, vendors, or the company itself. Content that could be considered bullying, harassment, or defamatory towards any individual connected to the organisation is strictly prohibited.

Official Company Social Media: Only team members who have been specifically authorised by the management or marketing team may post content on behalf of the company on official social media accounts. Unauthorised posting on company accounts or creating unofficial accounts in the company's name is not permitted.

Responding to Queries Online: If a team member comes across a query, complaint, or negative comment about the company on social media, they must not respond on behalf of the company unless they are authorised to do so. Such queries or complaints should be flagged to the relevant team so that an authorised person can respond appropriately.

Social Media During Work Hours: Personal social media use during working hours is not allowed as it interferes with the team member's work or productivity.

Consequences of Non-Compliance: Violation of this policy including sharing confidential information, making defamatory statements, or misrepresenting the company on social media will be treated as a serious disciplinary matter. Depending on the nature of the violation, it may also have legal consequences.

7.6 RECRUITMENT & EMPLOYMENT

7.6 a) RECRUITMENT AND HIRING POLICY

Raising a Hiring Request: All hiring must begin with a formal request. The concerned department head must raise a hiring request to the HR team with details of the role, the number of positions, the required skills, and the reason for hiring. No recruitment activity will begin without this approval in place.

Job Description: Once the hiring request is approved, the HR team will prepare or review a clear job description for the role. This will include the responsibilities, qualifications, skills required, and the reporting structure. The job description must be approved by the department head before the position is advertised.

Sourcing Candidates: The HR team will identify suitable candidates through job portals, the company website, social media, team member referrals, or recruitment agencies where needed. Team member referrals are encouraged. Any team member referring a candidate must disclose their relationship with the candidate to HR before the process begins.

Screening and Shortlisting: The HR team will screen all applications against the job description and shortlist candidates who meet the required criteria. Only shortlisted candidates will be contacted for further rounds.

Interview Process: All candidates must go through a structured interview process. The number of rounds and the people involved in the interviews will be decided by HR and the department head based on the seniority and nature of the role. Interview feedback must be documented and submitted to HR after each round.

Selection and Offer: The final selection decision must be agreed upon by both the HR team and the department head. Once a candidate is selected, the HR team will prepare and share the offer letter. Verbal commitments or informal offers must not be made to candidates before the official offer letter is issued.

Background Verification: All selected candidates will be required to undergo a background verification check before or at the time of joining. This may include verification of previous employment, educational qualifications, and identity. Offers are conditional upon the successful completion of background verification.

Offer Acceptance and Joining: Once the candidate accepts the offer, HR will share the joining date and all required pre-joining information. The candidate will be required to submit original documents for verification on or before the date of joining.

Internal Hiring: Internal candidates who wish to apply for open positions within the company are encouraged to do so. They must inform their current reporting manager before applying. All internal applications will go through the same process as external ones.

7.6 b) ONBOARDING AND OFFBOARDING POLICY

ONBOARDING

Evaluation Period: After a person is selected, he/she will be hired for an evaluation period of one month. They will be given one month's salary during the evaluation period. Their performance will be evaluated and they will be hired further.

Before the Joining Date: Once a candidate confirms their joining date, the HR team will coordinate with IT, Admin, and the relevant department to ensure everything is ready before the team member arrives. This includes setting up the workstation, system access, email ID, and any tools or platforms required for the role.

Day One: On the first day, the team member will be welcomed by the HR team and given an orientation. This will cover an introduction to the company, its values, teams, and general processes. The team member will also complete all pending documentation on day one if not already done before joining.

Team Introduction: HR will ensure the new team member is introduced to their team and reporting manager on the first day. The reporting manager is responsible for making the new team member feel welcomed and settled.

Role Briefing: Within the first week, the reporting manager must give the new team member a clear briefing on their role, responsibilities, goals, and how their work fits into the bigger picture.

Buddy or Mentor: Where possible, a buddy or point of contact from within the team will be assigned to the new team member for the initial period to help them settle in and answer day to day questions.

Completion of Joining Formalities: The new team member must submit all required documents to HR within the first three working days of joining. HR will maintain a checklist and follow up if anything is pending.

OFFBOARDING

Initiating the Offboarding Process: Once a team member's resignation is accepted or their last working day is confirmed, the HR team will initiate the offboarding process and share a clearance checklist with the team member and their reporting manager.

Knowledge Transfer: The team member must ensure a thorough handover of their work, tasks, files, and any important information to their reporting manager or a designated team member. This should be completed before the last working day. The reporting manager is responsible for overseeing the knowledge transfer and confirming its completion to HR.

Clearance Process: Before the last working day, the team member must obtain clearance from all relevant departments including IT, Admin, Finance, and HR. Each department will confirm that there are no pending obligations or assets that need to be addressed. In reiteration of the Non-disclosure and confidential agreement signed at the time of joining, exiting team members are required to submit the duly signed Clearance form along with Non-Disclosure Agreement (NDA) before the last working day. Clearance Form can be accessed from Annexure -1 and Annexure- 2.

Return of Assets: All company assets including devices and documents must be returned as part of the clearance process. HR will use the clearance checklist to track and confirm returns.

Exit Interview: As part of offboarding, every departing team member will attend an exit interview with HR. This is a confidential conversation and the feedback will be used constructively by the company.

Deactivation of Access: On the last working day, the IT team will deactivate all system access, email, and platform logins of the departing team member.

Full and Final Settlement: Once clearance is fully completed and all assets are returned, the Finance and HR teams will process the full and final settlement within a reasonable timeframe.

7.6 c) NOTICE PERIOD & HANDOVER

1. Duration of the Notice Period

Probation: For team members who are still in their probation period, the notice period will be 15 days. This applies to both the team member and the employer.

Standard: When a team member resigns or is let go, the team member is required to serve a 30-day notice period in both the cases. The notice period will begin from the date HR officially accepts the resignation and not from the date it was submitted. HR will take up to 7 working days to review and confirm the acceptance of the resignation.

Long-term team member: Team members beyond 2 years of service must provide 45 days notice, while those with more than 3 years must provide 60 days notice and for more than 5 years of service, the notice period will be of 120 days.

Immediate Termination (Misconduct): The company retains the right to immediately terminate employment without notice in cases of proven misconduct (such as theft, fraud, harassment, or breach of confidentiality) irrespective of the tenure of team member in the organisation.

Category	Criteria	Notice Period
Evaluation	Team Member under Evaluation period	7 days
Probation	Team member still within probation period but completed Evaluation period successfully	30 Days
Standard	Regular team member (resignation or termination)	30 Days
Long-term	More than 2 years of service	45 Days
Long-term	More than 3 years of service	60 Days
Long-term	More than 5 years of service	120 Days

2. Transfer of Responsibilities

- Prior to the last day of employment, the departing team member has to:
- Finish all outstanding work and submit a written status report for ongoing initiatives.
 - Give their manager access to all digital files, passwords, and administrative data.

iii) All company property, such as laptops, phones and keys should be returned.

3. Policy on Leave

Only 1 SL (Sick Leave) is allowed during the notice period to ensure a smooth transition. Please note that if any leave taken beyond 1 Sick leave will be considered to lead to extension of notice period. Any unserved notice period will be considered for penalty deduction from Full and Final Settlement and shall be treated as per clause no. 4 below.

Please note that if you take even a single day of leave without approval during this period, 2 days salary will be deducted from your final settlement instead of one. We appreciate your cooperation and understanding during this time.

4. Adherence of Notice & Successful Handover :

A notice period as defined above is required to be served, during which you are expected to complete the satisfactory handover formalities of responsibilities, activities, tasks, documents, knowledge transfer, professional relationship transfer and maintain a professional conduct. Failure to adhere to the notice period or successful complete handover may result in forfeiture of full and final settlement. In addition, the company also reserves the rights to initiate legal proceedings to recover losses against the business losses that occurred due to non-serving notice period/unsuccessful handover formalities.

5. Waiver of Notice Period:

In certain circumstances, the company may choose to waive the notice period partially or fully, based on the situation. If the Team Member requests a waiver, management will assess overall needs before making a decision.

6. Payment in Lieu of Notice:

If the Team member wishes to leave before the completion of the notice period, they may compensate the company for the remaining days of the notice period by paying the Company the equivalent amount of salary for the unserved days, which may be adjusted from the full and final settlement.

7.6 d) PROBATION POLICY

The probation period will be 3 months from the date of joining. If needed, the probation period can be extended by another 3 months, but only if both the team member and the employer mutually agree to it.

Outcomes of the Probation Period :

At the conclusion of the probation period, one of the following outcomes will occur:

- a. Confirmation of Employment: If performance meets or exceeds expectations, the team member will be confirmed as a permanent team member and a confirmation letter shall be issued to team members.

OR

- b. Extension of Probation: If a team member shows potential but has not fully met expectations, then probation may be extended for a maximum of three additional months.

OR

- c. Termination: If a team member fails to meet performance standards or engages in misconduct, employment may be terminated without prior notice.

7.6 e) EXIT POLICY

Resignation: A team member who wishes to leave the organisation must submit a formal written resignation to their reporting manager and to the HR team. The resignation should clearly state the intended last working day.

Exit Interview: All team members who are leaving the organisation are required to attend an exit interview with the HR team. The purpose of this conversation is to understand the team member's experience and gather honest feedback. The exit interview will be treated with confidentiality and the feedback shared will be used to improve the workplace for everyone.

Handover of Work: Before leaving, the team member must complete a proper handover of all pending work, ongoing tasks, files, and responsibilities to their reporting manager or the person designated by the manager. The handover must be completed before the last working day. The reporting manager is responsible for ensuring the handover is done properly.

Return of Company Property: All company property including laptops, phones, keys, and any other issued items must be returned before the last working day. Laptops and phones must be returned with passwords removed and data intact. HR will share a clearance checklist, and Full & Final settlement will be processed only after all items are returned and clearance is complete. Failure to return assets will be treated as misappropriation, and MAGPPIE reserves the right to file a police complaint and pursue legal recovery.

Access and System Deactivation: On or before the last working day, the IT team will deactivate the team member's access to all company systems, email accounts, software, and internal platforms. team members must not retain copies of confidential company data after their exit.

Full and Final Settlement: In compliance with the New Labour Codes, the company will complete the settlement of all wages and dues(as per company policy) within 48 working days of the team member's last working day. This applies regardless of whether the exit is due to resignation, termination, or company closure.

7.6 f) REFERRAL HIRING

- i) Any team member can refer someone they know for an open position by sharing their details with HR.
- ii) If the referred person gets hired and completes 6 months of employment, the referring team member gets a referral bonus.
- iii) The bonus will be paid out only after those 6 months are completed, not before.
- iv) The person being referred must be a fresh candidate not someone who already applied or was previously employed here.
- v) The referral must be submitted to HR before the candidate applies on their own.
- vi) The referring team member must be still working with the company at the time the bonus is paid out.
- vii) The team member can refer a person in the company but will not be eligible for any reward.
- viii) HR members involved in hiring and anyone directly deciding on that hire cannot refer candidates for that role.
- ix) If the referred candidate doesn't get selected, it has no impact on the referring team member whatsoever.
- x) Referring a close relative or partner will additionally fall under the Section 7.1 g) Fraternisation Policy.

Procedure for Referrals

The references need to be sent in respective Google Form mentioned below along with their resume any time to the HR department in email.

i) https://docs.google.com/forms/d/e/1FAIpQLSfj1gBm_83fFR13T9sIJ7jAycSA_3ud8CiN1SuBqaBxcTSYMw/viewform?usp=pp_url

- ii) In case, there are two referees who have sent the same candidate's details, then HR will consider the referral through the referee who has sent in the resume first and will intimate to the second referee of non-inclusion of his/ her referral.
- iii) HR will evaluate the referral CVs against existing or any new openings that come up. Short listed candidates will be intimated to appear for the selection process along with intimation to the referee. The HR department may also request the concerned Team member to help coordinate during the selection process.
- iv) In case of non-selection of a referral, HR will intimate the referee.
- v) Referral Reward will be null and void for the Team members who have resigned or served notice period.

The referral reward will be as follows:

LEVEL	REWARD AMOUNT
Executive	Rs 4000
Senior Executive OR Manager	Rs 7000
Senior Manager & Above	Rs 15000

A Final Word

This document is a living reflection of who we are at Magppie. It will grow as we grow, and it will be revisited as our world changes. But the spirit behind it, the belief that good work and good values belong together, will not change.

If anything in this document is unclear, if you have a question that it does not answer, or if a situation comes up that you are simply not sure how to handle, please do not sit with it alone. Reach out. That is always the right first step.

We are here to help, and no question is too small or too awkward to ask.
